

A dialogue:

-Hello! How are you? Oh, Look at that bee. It is so cute and small!

-Hi! Yes, it is, but did you know that bees are very important?

- Really? Why are they important?

-They help flowers and vegetables grow.

Without bees, we have no apples, no strawberries, and no chocolate!

- Oh no! I love chocolate. Are bees in danger?

-Yes, they face 4 big dangers:

Pesticides & chemicals: People use harmful sprays and products on plants that hurt bees.

Habitat loss: People cut down trees and flowers so there are no homes for bees.

Climate change: The planet is getting too warm for them.

Extreme heat and drought reduce the quantity and quality of pollen and nectar.

Pollution: Pollution, particularly air pollution, affects the growth and reproduction of bees, making them more susceptible to diseases.

-That is sad. How can we help?

- It is easy! We can do two things:

Plant flowers: Bees love colorful flowers, like sunflowers

A "Bee Hotel": We can make a small wooden house for them.

- Great! Let's plant some sunflowers today.

-Good idea! Let's save the bees!!
